Guessing Who Will Be Postmaster. There is considerable speculation in regard to the appointment for post-master to replace Charles H. Dimmaster to replace Charles H. As many as a dozen prominent dem-ocratic politicians have been mention-ed in this connection, and it is said that there are several dark horses in the race.

At least one politician has been as good as offered the place, at any rate he was requested by a man close to Congressmen Mahan to get up a petition to; the office, but he preferred not to get into the race.

The fire was caused by an overheated chimney, and had been partially put out by means of a garden hose when the firemen arrived. They ripped up a small section of the roof and some chemical did the business in short order. The recall was sounded soon after they reached the fire. The damage was probably under one hundred dollars, covered by insurance.
